

Training Services

In recent years the whole emphasis of Health and Safety Legislation in the UK has moved towards the prevention of industrial injuries. Most UK Legislation has requirements for Employers to provide "information, instruction and training".

In order to implement these requirements it is important that adequate Health and Safety Training is given to Management and Employees.

TGF can assist in identifying areas where training is needed and in developing a Training Programme so that Training needs can be implemented over a defined period.

In doing so, TGF can develop bespoke training modules and provides a service to deliver the training itself.

This training is for Management and Employees alike and can be tailor-made to meet the specific concerns of Clients.

Depending on Client requirements, TGF can also assist by providing the initial training to Managers to allow them to pass this on to Employees.

Delegates (usually a session will accommodate up to twenty (20) individuals) will receive some lecture-based content, a workshop to encourage interaction and a questions opportunity. All delegates receive relevant handouts and Certificates of Attendance.

Training can be undertaken at the TGF premises in Lymm at Clients own premises or neutral venues depending on requirements.
